

Currency News

the confidential newsletter for currency

Currency News™, the confidential newsletter for currency, is the monthly definitive source of information on banknotes and coins. It is the only independent newsletter dedicated to this field, carrying an authoritative blend of news, analysis and commentary with the frequency that this highly-specialised and rapidly-changing field requires.

Currency News is read each month around the world by central banks and issuing authorities, banknote printers and mints, suppliers of components and substrates, manufacturers of production and processing equipment, commercial banks, manufacturers and deployers of cash dispensing and recycling systems, CIT and cash handling companies.

In other words, by all those involved in the specification, design, production, issue, processing, distribution and verification of cash. They value the news, analysis and insight that Currency News delivers every month to keep them up to date and informed about the issues and developments affecting currency.

WHO SHOULD READ CURRENCY NEWS?

You! If you are involved in the specification and design of note and coin issues.

Currency News provides impartial and invaluable information on design, features, costs and circulation – providing central banks and issuing authorities with cradle-to-grave coverage of all issues affecting note issue and distribution.

You! If you are a printer or mint, or if you supply substrates and components for notes and coins.

Currency News will guide you in all the latest systems and technologies for the security, integrity, quality and cost-efficiency of currency production.

You! If you supply processing, dispensing, recycling, vending and authentication systems.

Your business depends on keeping up to date with the latest news on note issues, trends and policy development – Currency News will ensure you remain at the cutting-edge in keeping currency on the move.

You! If you provide cash handling and management services and systems.

Currency News provides detailed insight on the integration of cash production and distribution of cash, enabling you to implement services that will keep our cash safe, secure and cost-effective.
